THERE HAVE BEEN some long City Council meetings in Campbell in the past, but we doubt very much if there ever was a longer continuous session than that one last week (Jan. 10) which extended from 8 p.m. to 2:45 a.m.

Four hours of the almost seven hours that the councilmen were in session were devoted to the controversial issue of the proposed site plan for the Amato property.

It was a public hearing on the question of a zone change for the 31-acre parcel and that was exactly what it was...A PUBLIC hearing in every sense of the word with almost anyone who wanted to, getting a crack at the mike.

The council chambers were packed with interested citizens, predominately those opposing the town house, single-family residential proposal of Dura Style Homes.

Although there was a SRO crowd, we think that it must have been within the limits prescribed by the Fire Department because we did not observe any fire department people around frowning on the assemblage.

Come to think of it, that is all that would have been needed to top off the evening/morning affair, if the Fire Department would have cited the City Council for not complying with fire regulations.

Internal combustion might have started a fire right then and there.

BUT REALLY THAT WAS not a problem.

John Ruppel, administrative assistant to the city manager and sort of maitre d' of the council chambers, watched things pretty carefully.

He brought in enough extra chairs to expand the normal seating capacity of 98 to 130.

Incidentally, when a show of hands were asked for as to the feelings on the Amato property site plan, 94 were raised in opposition to it with 16 in favor.

That means that there must have been about 20 others in the chambers who were either there for some other purpose or didn't care to "vote."

For example, the three of us at the press table, Sally, Jose and your out-on-the-limber were too busy counting hands (or taking a picture, as in Sally's case) to raise our own hands.

Sally was on hand because we had a Grand Jury commitment.

Incidentally, in the interest of relativity, the Grand Jury murder indictment session lasted only until 10:30 p.m.

The Council hearing was just half-way through by that time.

ONE OF THOSE INDIviduals who had other business at the City Council meeting the night of the Amato hearing was Fred Sahadi, developer of the PruneYard-Towers.

Fred was seeking Council approval of a 10-story office building that will be located in front of the 18-story "Towers" in the PruneYard.

He patiently (on the surface, at least) sat through the entire Amato performance waiting for his matter to come up on the agenda.

It didn't take the Council very long to approve Sahadi's request once that body got around to it.

But it was 1:15 a.m. when it came to bat.

Just before he left, Fred suggested that maybe City Manager Bob Stephens should give him a note to take to his wife to verify that he had been at the City Council meeting all that time and not out partying.

"On second thought," Fred added, "maybe the note should be from City Clerk Dorothy Trevethan."

New owners officially take over at Campbell Community Hospital

Ownership of the Campbell Community Hospital, on Winchester near Hamilton, which opened in 1963, on Monday of this week was officially transferred to Pacific Community Hospital, a wholly owned subsidiary of Community Psychiatric Corporation, a San Francisco-based concern.

Announcement of the transfer was made by Bob Brydon, chairman of the Campbell Community Hospital Foundation which has operated the 40-bed facility since 1966.

BOB BRYDON
---Foundation chairman

In making the announcement confirming the sale which has been pending for several months, Brydon stressed that Pacific Community Hospital (PCH) headed by Robert L. Green, has specifically guaranteed that the hospital will continue with its general status and no substantial change either in personnel or operation is contemplated.

Brydon said that Jerry H. Schutz, who has been acting as administrator under a management agreement with PCH for the past several months, will continue in the same capacity under the new ownership.

Under the transfer in ownership, PCH has assumed all the assets and liabilities of the Foundation. The transfer in ownership had to be granted prior approval of the Superior Court because of the non-profit status of the Foundation.

Brydon also emphasized that in the agreement of sale Pacific Community Hospital has agreed to update the hospital and possibly expand its operation.

Brydon said that the primary reason the sale was made was that it was felt that the community would benefit through this updating. He said that lack of capital on the part of the Foundation had limited the hospital's operation in the past.

The Foundation chairman also explained that under the sales agreement, a substantial amount of the money retained by the Foundation from tax savings and in other ways will be distributed to non-profit charitable organizations of a like nature. He said the Foundation board will remain intact until the funds are distributed.

Serving with Brydon on the board are, Stan Cooney, Roy Krickeberg, Dr. Robert M. Wade, Dale Scott, Russell Sargent, Mario Saia and Dr. Edward Cahn.

Approximately 130 full and part-time employees are on the staff of the hosptial at the present time.

Dean Chamberlin files for reelection to City Council

Nomination papers will be filed this week naming Dean R. Chamberlin, incumbent City Councilman and past mayor, as candidate for another term on the Campbell City Council, according to Homer Hyde, who is circulating Chamberlin's petition.

Hyde, former councilman and mayor and long-time civic leader, is Chamberlin's campaign manager. Chamberlin completes his first term as councilman in April.

Chamberlin, 56, has lived in Campbell and worked in the Campbell Union High School District for 32 years. He has served on numerous citizens' committees over these years, including a term as Planning Commissioner before being elected to the Council.

As an incumbent, Chamberlin cites four years of progress in Campbell during his time in office.

"Municipal services have been maintained at a high level", he emphasizes, and a great many new businesses and homes have been built. "Our beautiful new city hall has been planned and constructed during my term of office, and during the same period Campbell's operating taxes have been kept below those of most neighboring communities.

---council candidate

"Our city has been one of the very few in the area to actually reduce its tax rate this year."

Chamberlin and wife, Veva, a native of Campbell, reside at 103 Carlyn. They have two grown sons, Don, with IBM in New York, and Jim in Washington, D.C.

School board moves to get new business assistant

Direction was given Jim D'Avis, acting superintendent of the Campbell Union (elementary) School District, by the trustees of the district last Thursday to receive applications for an Administrative Assistant for Business for the district.

Salary for the position has been set at $17,060 per year, and applications will be received up to Feb. 4, 1972.

In establishing the position, district officials have emphasized that the successful applicant should be capable of assuming the position of business manager of the district, an office held by C.E. Bradley for almost 20 years.

Bradley, in a letter to the board, has indicated that he plans to retire but neither the board nor the superintendent's office have indicated that a date has been set for the retirement.

D'Avis, in his recommendation that was approved by the board, stressed that the successful candidate for the position of "administrative assistant for business" is expected to begin his duties as soon as possible and no later than March 16.

D'Avis also pointed out that the person would be expected to actively participate in the preparation of the 1972-73 budget and in the preparation of financial reports to the board.

D'Avis said that after the deadline of Feb. 4, a screening committee will consider all applicants and the final selection for recommendation to the board will be made by the acting superintendent.

At last Thursday's meeting the board accepted the invitation of the Marshall Lane Home and School Club to hold the regular board meeting of Feb. 17 at the Marshall Lane School.

In another action, the board authorized a continuance of an agreement with George Wightman to maintain the portion of the Allendale School site that has fruit trees on it.

Board members were invited to attend the in-service education day meeting at Rolling Hills School on Jan. 28.

FIRE DAMAGES SCHOOL

A fire believed to have been set by arsonists, gutted the administration office and damaged the kindergarten wing of Quito School, at 13500 Quito Road, about 2 a.m. Sunday.

Campbell Union School District officials were of the opinion that the offices would have to be rebuilt. Temporary office quarters were set up in a classroom. Fortunately some of the more valuable pupil records were saved, Galen Wilcox, principal, reported.

Jaycees name man-of-year on Saturday

Campbell JayCees will announce the winner of the annual Distinguished Service Award awarded by that body at the annual banquet that will be held at Zorba's this Saturday, Jan. 22.

The award is given each year to the young man, who in the opinion of the judges, has contributed the most to his community during the past year and has shown outstanding leadership ability.

Winner of last year's award was Jack Christian, of the Campbell Fire Department. Previous winners were Carl Kuhn, former city administrative assistant and now assistant city manager of Pacifica; Dale Scott, chairman of the Planning Commission and Bob Dalzell, now of Santa Maria.

Master of ceremonies for the annual DSA banquet will be Fred LaCosse of KNTV (Channel 11) and Mayor Norman Mineta of San Jose.

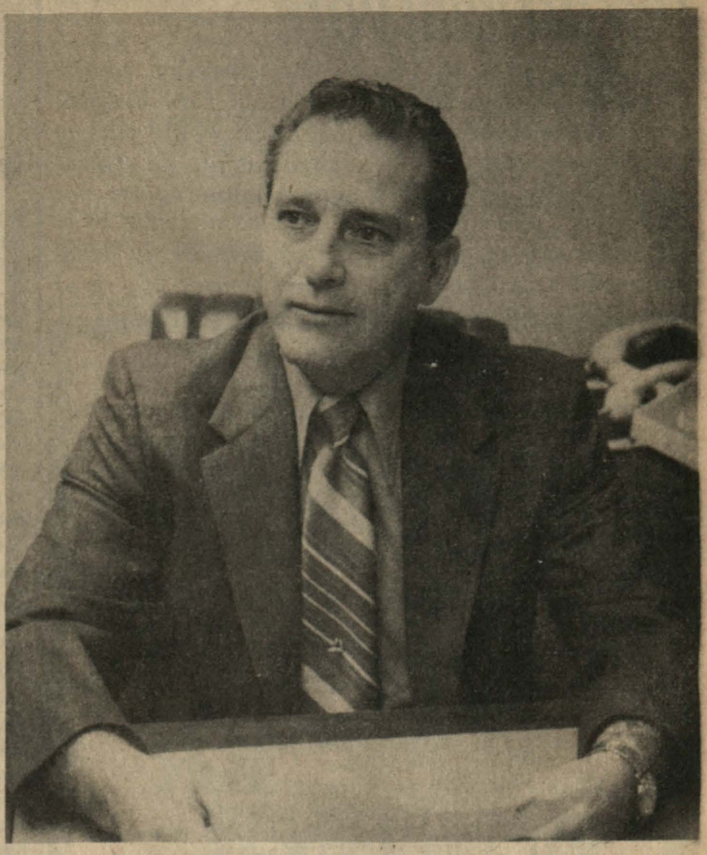
The banquet is held annually as a climax to National JayCees Week. The week has been proclaimed locally by Mayor Ralph Doetsch

ENDS ON FEB. 3

Filing date for City Council candidates for the April 11 city election is Thursday, Feb. 3, at noon, City Clerk Dorothy Trevethan reported this week.

Three City Council seats are open. In addition, the electorate will vote on whether the office of city treasurer should be elective (as it now is) or appointive.

Filing for council opened on Jan. 13. Dean Chamberlin, incumbent, was the first one to take out his nomination papers and file for office, Mrs. Trevethan said.



DON BURR---to become city's third police chief in 20 years.

COUNCIL TO VERIFY MONDAY

City manager promotes Burr to police chief

Police Captain Don Burr on Tuesday of this week was promoted to the position of police chief by City Manager Bob Stephens. Burr has been acting chief of the department since Feb. 13, 1971.

The promotion, which will be effective on Feb. 1, is subject to the approval of the City Council, an action that has been indicated will be taken next Monday. Jan. 24.

Chief Burr was appointed acting chief last February when Police Chief John Morgan was stricken with a massive cerebral hemorrhage. Morgan has been physically disabled and paralyzed since that time.

Until Tuesday of this week (Jan. 11) Chief Morgan had been receiving his full salary from the city, based on accumulation of sick leave, vacation time and compensatory time earned. As of Jan. 11, the city's compensation terminated.

Currently an appeal is pending before the State Retirement Board and the State Workman's Compensation Board as to whether Morgan's disability was job incurred.

Should the state rule that Chief Morgan's disability was job incurred, a full year's salary will then be paid him without effecting any of the benefits that have already been paid.

However, if the ruling goes the other way, Chief Morgan's retirement pay will be based on a different factor.

Chief Burr, 37, when he officially assumes the top spot in the police department on Feb. 1, will be the third police chief that the city has had in its 20-year history.

Morgan succeeded Bob Locke, the city's first chief, in 1961 and was in his 12th year as chief when he was incapacitated.

Burr, and his wife, Darlene, have resided in Campbell since he joined the force as a patrolman on Oct. 1, 1956, almost 15½ years ago. They have three children, Don, 19, Cheryl, 16, and Julie, 11.

Council to act on plans for Rincon Park next Monday

Development of Rincon Park should get the green light next Monday, Jan. 24, when the City Council is expected to approve the long-delayed agreement with the landscape architect for "working plans."

The city has delayed authorizing the agreement until assurance was received from federal funding authorities that the cost could be charged against any federal grant that the city received.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has indicated that it would be a legitimate charge and will not jeopardize the $50,000 grant that the city has been given permission to apply for.

The working plans for the park development will be drafted by Kenneth Arutunian, landscape architect, who produced the master plan for the Park.

On the agenda for the next Council meeting is the second reading or adoption of the controversial zone change ordinance for the 31-acre Amato property.

The Council indicated at the first reading that the request of Dura Style Homes site plan for the area involved

CITIZEN-OF-THE-YEAR---Norm Paul (right), retiring president of the Chamber of Commerce and vice-chairman of the Planning Commission, receives the "Citizen-of-the-year" award for 1971 from the Rev. W. H. (Ben) Gould, recipient of the honor for 1969 at the annual CofC installation dinner last Friday.

Paul, of 44 El Caminito, co-owner of the Plaza Theaters, has been a long-time participant in civic affairs. He was chosen from 11 nominees for the honor. The selection was made by a committee composed of former award winners and was kept secret until the announcement and presentation at the dinner.

Editorial

The official vote

By a 3-2 vote on January 10, after one of the longest public hearings on record, the City Council gave first reading to an ordinance that would change the present zoning of R-1 (single-family) to P-D (planned development) on the 31-acre Amato property.

The second reading or final approval of the ordinance will take place on Monday, January 24. And 30 days later it will become the law of the city, if approved on January 24.

Ordinarily this "second reading" is a mere formality, for the first reading generally has determined the final outcome. The action when the ordinance is actually adopted is sort of "for the record"—But it does not have to be that way necessarily.

We think it is important to point out that, although ordinarily it has been more or less routine to merely go through the motions at the second reading (or adoption) of any ordinance, there is a sound basis for this time lapse of two weeks between the first and second readings in the adoption process of any ordinance.

It is possible that the significance of the decision or the impact that it will make does not come into focus until the dust has settled after the first reading of an ordinance.

Two weeks time allows for review and reflection. We concede that it is the exception rather than the rule, if there ever is a change in the voting alignment between the first and second readings of an ordinance.

However, we think it is important also to point out that technically, and legally, there is actually no vote at the time an ordinance is given its first reading.

The vote comes at the time the ordinance is adopted and that is at the second reading, generally two weeks after the ordinance has been introduced.

We would very much like to see an exception made in the adoption of the zoning ordinance affecting the Amato property that is now waiting its official fate and vote on January 24.

We would like to see the Council hold up on its voting in the final adoption of this controversial ordinance.

It is our opinion that a deferment in the voting on this particular zoning ordinance would not be out of line based on the circumstances surrounding the case.

One of the factors involved is that the Planning Commission is holding a series of public hearings with the main purpose in mind of a possible up-dating of the city's General Plan.

Specific areas are being studied at these hearings. And the hearings are held in the areas that are being studied to make it more convenient for interested residents to attend.

Three such General Plan hearings have been held and a fourth is set for Tuesday, Jan. 25 at Rosemary School when the Hamilton Ave. area will be reviewed.

Although attendance has been poor at the hearings, we think they serve a very useful purpose, by emphasizing the importance of a General Plan to the community.

The public hearing in this series on the General Plan for the particular area in which the Amato property is located has not yet been held.

It seems to us that it would have been wise for the Council to wait until after the public hearing is held on the General Plan affecting the Amato property before taking any particular zoning action for the area.

Otherwise why have the hearings?

It is our contention also when the zoning and the General Plan do not coincide, as in the Amato property situation, misunderstandings and misinterpretations will arise that could adversely affect the potential developer as well as the residents of the community.

We are saying then, in effect, that it was not necessary, in our opinion, for the Council to have approved the zone change and the site plan for the Amato parcel on Monday, Jan. 10. The far-reaching significance that the action will have on the community emphasizes the need for caution.

We are also pointing out, that actually the approval will not be officially given until Monday, Jan. 24.

There will have been no "legal" vote until then.

We think our suggestion is worth considering.

thon hearing, Sahadi was also innocently involved in a case of mistaken identity on the part of a woman who, at the time, was at the mike somewhat emotionally expressing her opposition to the proposal of Dura Style Homes, which is headed by Mike Engdol.

Ironically, the woman, as well as many of the other residents who were objecting to the site plan, had purchased her home from Engdol who had built a number of subdivisions in the area in the early '50's.

"I even see the salesman who sold me my house in the audience," the woman exclaimed. "He may not remember me, but I remember him well".

And she pointed an accusing finger at Fred Sahadi who had placidly and patiently been sitting in the audience waiting for the hearing to end so that the Council could act on his 10-story office.

Sahadi, the city's biggest developer and the largest taxpayer, who has seen his dream of the Towers-PruneYard materialize in a few short years, probably was so shocked by the accusation that he may have almost believed it himself.

Except that Sahadi wasn't around here in the 1950's and he has never sold houses.

Fred kept his sense of humor.

During intermission someone went up to Fred and asked why he didn't take the Amato property and develop it into another PruneYard-Towers project.

Sahadi spread his hands and shrugged his shoulders.

"Didn't you hear the lady", he asked, "I sell houses."

ONE OF THE POINTS that has been stressed during the hassle on the Amato property is the relationship of the proposed Dura Style Homes development to the city's General Plan.

Some have maintained that the proposed Dura Style Homes development has closely followed the General Plan.

Others claim that there is enough difference between the proposal and the General Plan to make it unpalatable.

Some argue that the General Plan is merely a guideline and does not have to be adhered to. It is only the zoning that counts.

Others submit that the General Plan commits the city to a specific concept and is a guarantee of a city's policy as far as future development is concerned.

We suppose the answer is somewhere in between.

The Amato property controversy has put the city's General Plan into the limelight. And that's a good idea.

It appears to us that, if a General Plan is to be workable, the actual zoning must coincide with what the plan shows.

Unfortunately, the zoning on the Amato property was never changed to correspond with the General Plan.

The 31-acre parcel has always remained zoned R-1 (single-family) whereas the General Plan shows high density, medium density and low density (single-family) uses for the property.

And that seems to be what the fuss is all about.

Residents in the area don't want the present zone changed.

IRONICALLY, THE Planning Commission is in the process of holding public hearings on the General Plan throughout the city.

The main purpose is to provide and receive information concerning elements of the General Plan and to consider updating the plan after a review has taken place.

For example, the third in the series of hearings was held last week in the Dover School, and concerned the area from the freeway to Meridian and from Hamilton to Dry Creek.

The next hearing will be held at Rosemary School on Tuesday, Jan. 25, and will concern the area on Hamilton Ave.

The hearings have been poorly attended. Only three residents showed up at the Dover hearing.

That, however, still does not mean that they are not serving a useful purpose.

The hearings concerning the area in which the Amato property is located is scheduled for February. It would probably have drawn a pretty fair house, if the City Council last week had not sort of pre-empted things a bit by approving a zone change for the Amato parcel by a 3-2 vote.

In lieu of the Council's action, the Planning Commission hearing then on the area will be somewhat anticlimatical.

It seems to us that Council action should have been deferred at least, until after the hearing was held on the General Plan for that particular case.

Maybe it would have been found that the General Plan needed changing rather than the zoning.

"HEY, YOU'RE POLLUTING THE AIR!"

Planning Commission okays plan line for "south loop"

A plan line for the proposed "south loop" street was recommended by the Planning Commission on Monday as part of the loop system which has been approved in concept by the city.

The north loop plan line has been established for some time and the new street between Central and First on the south side of the city hall is the first section that has been constructed.

The plan line for the street approved by the Planning Commission will be approximately 300-feet south of Campbell Ave. (the same distance as the "north loop") and will extend from Third St. to Railway Ave.

The proposed street will be 50-feet wide. Approximately 10 parcels will have to be acquired for right-of-way including a portion of the former Sunsweet warehouse now owned by Stan Becker.

The plan line recommendation now goes to the City Council. Public hearings will be held before the Council acts on it.

In other actions, the Planning Commission:

APPROVED the application of Keith Wiggins for a recreational vehicle park on the west side of Los Gatos Creek.

APPROVED the application of Robert W. Hendrickson for addition of two units to existing duplex at 93 Sunnyside.

CONTINUED until the second meeting in February action on the request of Wheel Away Cycle Center, at 402 Hamilton, for approval of an addition to the present building in order to work out parking problems.

DENIED the request of Alan Rubnits for approval of an amendment to the plot plan for the development of 56-units at 2265 S. Bascom.

APPROVED the application of John C. Vierhus for the remodeling of an existing residence at 900 E. Campbell Ave. into an office.

DENIED the application of Joseph P. Clark and Fred Re-Horn for a use permit to allow a recording studio and entertainment center in a warehouse at 1065 Florence Way for the second time.

in the zone change (from R-1-S to P-D) had the necessary three votes for passage.

However, at the first reading no "official" vote is taken. It is just an indication of the feeling. The actual vote is recorded at the second reading.

Up for second reading also is the request of Fred Sahadi for approval of plans for a 10-story office building next to the 18-story Towers. The Council indicated unanimous approval for the Sahadi request at the first reading.

The Council is also expected to discuss with the landscape architect plans for replacing the tree that had to be removed at the city hall.

Up for discussion also will be the problem of traffic hazards existing at the San Tomas Expressway pedestrian overpass and what steps should be taken to eliminate them.

The Council also is expected to review the regulations that have been established at the city hall prohibiting smoking in the council chambers.

APPEAL TO CITIZENS--- Dale Scott (left), chairman of the Planning Commission and Art Kee, planning director, this week emphasized the importance of citizen participation in the hearings for review of the city's General Plan that the Planning Commission is holding throughout the city.

The next hearing is scheduled for next Tuesday, Jan. 25, at Rosemary School at 7:30 p.m. and will concern the Hamilton Ave. area.

Chairman Scott emphasized that such questions as traffic circulation, high rise construction, high density development, commercial development, parks and open space and industrial development are among the issues that are being considered as possible General Plan amendments.

"I believe that it is essential that the citizens of Campbell participate in the hearings," Scott said, "in order that the General Plan truly reflects the best thinking of the community.

"Too often we see citizens reacting to specific proposals in a negative fashion rather than being interested in land use without regard to a specific proposal. Our function, as a Commission, is to plan for development and then to consider proposals that implement the plan adopted.

"The concern of all people for the environment should be expressed as part of our General Plan development. This means that questions of density and traffic movement must be raised and answered.

"Will we be able to solve the problem of our environment and still depend on the auto," Scott asks, "and can we actually expect alternate modes of transit without planning for it now?"

In conclusion Chairman Scott emphasized that the planning problems of the City of Campbell is not just the simple issue of high versus low density.

"In short," Scott concludes, "we need and seek the active participation of all interested citizens to identify the problem and then to seek real answers to the real problems we face.

FAVORS INCREASE

Dear Editor,

A majority of the members of the Hazelwood Home and School Club Governing Board, wish to make known to you and to the members of our community, their support of the up-coming tax election, proposing a temporary property tax increase for the support of the Campbell Union School District.

This increase, if approved by the voters, will enable our schools to continue the fine educational program they have been providing for our children.

We realize that if the tax is not passed, it will seriously affect our schools by necessitating a large reduction of teachers in the district, and the elimination of vital programs and facilities.

We hope that the voters in the Campbell Union School District will join us in our support of the tax election this February 29.

Sincerely,
Tonya Helm
Corresponding Secretary
Hazelwood Home and School Club.

Prospect's Prophecies

by Phyllis Voigt

Broadcasting Club

Prospect's Broadcasting Club, which will run station KPRO when the time comes, held elections for temporary officers on Tuesday, January 11. Nominees were: vice-president: Pat Sheehan, Dave Jacobsen, Dirk Weiss and Brent Ebner; secretary: Marjorie Wilmot and Phyllis Voigt; treasurer: Bob Patrino.

Following elections, the floor was open to suggestions for fund-raising projects. Some ideas were a flea market, a car wash, a basketball game sponsored by the club, a bake sale, and a banquet. It was decided that meetings will be held regularly on Tuesdays.

Variety Show

Prospect's annual variety show was held on Thursday and Friday nights, January 13 and 14. Talents from other schools as well as Prospect were present, as well as special guests Miss Thom, Miss Udd, and Mrs. Page. Emcees were John Bettencourt and Mike Goodrich. A special mystery guest, whose identity is unknown to me at this time, was also present.

Community of Learners

Tami Mauk is a senior girl with a very unusual hobby. She is in the process of rebuilding the engine to a 1960 MGA. Tami bought the car, and another to be used for parts, for $400.00. She thinks that it will be easier for her to learn how to fix her own car than to pay extensive repair bills in the future. She has a $200.00 working fund, and plans to repaint and reupholster the car after rebuilding the engine.

Vicki Knapp is another girl with a strange pastime. She is designing the floor plan to either a one or two-story house. At the present she has eight different plans, and hasn't decided which plan to scale down. Although she has been drawing floor plans for several years, for fun she is only now using the proper architectural drawing instruments. When she finally decides which plan to use, and gets it drawn properly, she may make a small model of what her house could look like.

Both these girls are involved in the district Community of Learners project. This project is designed to give special students a chance to do something that they may not have the opportunity to do otherwise.

Brief sketches of other projects being done by these special students will follow in later articles.

Dances

Unless somebody works fast and hard, there will be no more all-school dances held at Prospect this year. It seems that not enough people are interested in the dances. Those who are, are not enough in number to keep the social affairs commission going.

Soccer

At the time of this writing, Prospect's soccer team, under the guidance of Mr. Ron Garcia, is undefeated.

A  for your thoughts

by Edith Bonnet

I'D LIKE TO YANK IT OFF THE WALL

Have you ever noticed how some days drag on and on until you'd like to shove them off the shelf as soon as possible (like yesterday). Other days fly by so fast you don't have time to turn around, let alone accomplish anything.

Sometimes, I wonder if poor ole Mr. Bell aughtin to be public enemy number one, instead of a hero inventor. Just when I think I got it made, and I've settled down to do something or to read or to take a nap (that'll be the day)...Ring, Ring, Ring, telephone ring....When I finally fight my way back to sanity, it's five photography studios, three interior decorators, ten rubbish collectors, two vacuum salesmen, four free tickets for a glorious weekend at Mount Pain-in-the-Neck (that one sounded tempting), and fifteen miscellaneous telephone calls later....with headache number one moving into the final stretch as etcetera # 25 wins the race by four lengths.

THE CANDY COATED PILL

Pediatricians have the weirdest things happen to them. One of my favorites (Pediatrician) recalls many years ago when a young couple from "somewhere far away" called in about a child with a terrible earache. He prescribed a then popular chocolate flavored medicine and asked them to call back in the morning. The mother called back, pleading, for her son had been awake most of the night in pain. Suspecting the worst, he drove to their house to take a first-hand look.

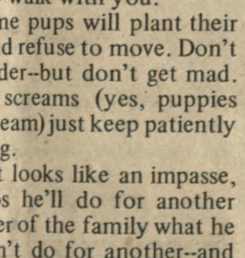
He looked alright–angry and puzzled, he spent the next two hours cleaning chocolate out of the child's ear.

A TOUCH OF THE LIGHT

"There are at least two sides to every question of the day. If you take one side among some people, you're blindly prejudiced; if you take the same side among other people, you're an objective viewer; if you refuse to take any side, you're a dope; if you take both sides and get away with it, you should enter politics."

---Don Fraser in Denton, Texas, Record-Chronicle.

Bringing up fido



ON LEARNING TO WALK

Teaching the puppy to move on a leash is much like the experience a toddler has when he first learns to walk.

While some children suddenly push themselves upright and go!, most of them have quite a few tumbles first.

What people forget is that for the puppy it is a learning process and should be approached gently.

Puppy's first collar should be a regular strap style, not a metal choke. Since he will outgrow it rapidly, don't invest much in it.

"Patience" is going to be the key word. If the puppy has never worn a collar, get him used to it first. Fasten it on his neck and then quickly distract him with food, play or petting. He may dig or scratch at it and add discomfort to his puzzlement.

When he's successfully worn the collar for a couple of days, then bring out the leash.

Stay away from chain leashes. They are heavy, dangerous and can be an ominous threat to a young dog.

If you anticipate the dog will grow beyond the size leash than seems appropriate now, then use a piece of soft sash cord, or buy an inexpensive plastic leash.

Be sure the clip which snaps onto the collar is not too big.

Grab up a few tidbits and coax him across the kitchen or garage floor--some surface he has walked on before. "Come on puppy, good boy, come on."

Coax him and as he moves, follow him That isn't your goal, of course, but while he's getting used to the leash, don't demand too much from him.

Gradually--not all in one lesson-start moving away from him, giving gentle tugs on the leash, coaxing and praising him to walk with you.

Some pups will plant their feet and refuse to move. Don't surrender--but don't get mad. If he screams (yes, puppies can scream) just keep patiently coaxing.

If it looks like an impasse, perhaps he'll do for another member of the family what he wouldn't do for another--and sometimes, he'll just surrender.

I have seen the puppy who was allowed to grow to five or six months bluffing the owner and therefore "unable" to walk on a leash.

At that age I don't coax too much, but use a choke chain and a couple of jerks. How much better, though, to create a happy experience when the puppy is young!

DARTING AROUND

with Tom Carroll

Tonight is the preliminaries of the Northern California Darts Assn. Singles Championship. El Camino League darters will be shooting at the Gaslighter Theater here in Campbell, while the South Bay Leaguers will be in Los Gatos at the Lancashire Lad.

Frank Malsbury, owner of the Lancashire Lad has put up a trophy for first place in the South Bay Prelim. The top ten finishers in each league will play in the finals, January 30, at the Primrose Lanes in Burlingame. The winners of this and the doubles finals to be played this Sunday (January 23) make up the All-Star team that will play the Southern California All-Stars on February 12 in Los Angeles.

DOUBLES FINALS

Sixty pairs will compete Sunday at Melody Hall in San Lorenzo for the doubles championship of the NCDA. Area darters from the South Bay League who will be competing are: Ray Hingston and Des Banks of the Lancashire Lad I; Gary Curtaz and Dave Pena of Scarlet LaRue's I; Kip Fanjoy and Phil Albers also from the LaRue I; Rick Miller and Paul Schultz from Banbury Clock I; and Eric Branthwaite and Roy Haslam of the Lancashire Lad I.

There are five other pairs in the South Bay League, four from the Primrose Lanes in Burlingame and one from Harold's in Redwood City.

One of the two gals that qualified in the prelims is in the El Camino League. That was Darla Nelson of Lancashire Lad IV. She was coupled with Milt Memmott of Campbell's Black Knight. Other Black Knight shooters to make the finals are: Bud Gaither and Pete Webster; Tony Elliott and Clay Cowden; and the team of Chuck Peterson and Rick James.

Then there is the remainder of the El Camino League: Mike Adams and Herb Heath; Mike Devore and Brian Riley, all from the Scarlet LaRue's II; Bill Gillespie and Jack Mehtala; Tom Potts and John Scanlan, these four from Andy Capps; Gus Spencer and Marty Martin from the Banbury Clock II; and last but not least this reporter and Les Quinn from the Black Watch I.

NEWS OF THE WORLD

The latest word we have received on the News of the World Tournament in England was about a nine dart 501 game. Remember they start straight off, they don't double in as we do. My source didn't supply me with the name of the gentlemen that performed this feat but they did tell me how it was done. Back-to-back 180's on the first six darts then he shot a triple 20, triple 19 and a double 12 game shot. Not too shabby as they say.

Mugs!

Theater stages comic operas

The Cabrini Community Theater, a community organization sponsored by the St. Frances Cabrini church, will produce the famous Gilbert and Sullivan hit "Pirates of Penzance" this spring. Production dates are tentatively scheduled for early April.

Congregationalists complete second phase of building

The climax of months of carpentry and hammer-pounding will come to members and friends of the Congregational Church of Campbell as they celebrate the completion of church additions and improvements in a Service of Celebration on Sunday, January 23.

A hundred thousand dollars of additions, including a new Fellowship Hall, two classrooms and kitchen remodeling, will be dedicated in the special 1:30 p.m. service, which replaces the regular 10 a.m. worship service and church school at the Congregational Church, 400 W. Campbell Ave.

Participating in the special service will be Reverend Anthony Wayne Myers, the church pastor, Dr. Corwin H. Olds, Minister Emeritus; Dr. Richard C. Norberg, Minister of the Northern California Conference of the United Church of Christ; Rev. Roland Wiederanders, minister of the San Jose Lutheran Church and president of the Campbell Association of Ministers; Rev. Frank Jaggers of the Santa Clara County Ministers' Association, Rev. Kenneth Bell, executive director of the Santa Clara County Council of Churches, and Dr. David H. Held, minister of the First Congregational Church of San Mateo, who will be guest speaker. Special music by the church choirs will be presented under the direction of Colin Ford, church organist.

At the close of the Service of Celebration, a procession will form to march from the Sanctuary to the new Fellowship Hall where Myron L. Fairchild, church moderator, and Robert M. Culp, chairman of the Construction Committee, will officiate at the dedication and ribbon-cutting ceremonies.

Reverend W. H. (Ben) Gould, minister of the First United Methodist Church of Campbell, will deliver a message from the community, and Mayor Ralph Doetsch will represent the City of Campbell. A tour of the additions will be conducted by the church youth.

The new additions represent completion of phase two of the Master Plan, designed by Gifford E. Sobey, architect, and carried out by Warren Crinklaw, general contractor, conceived by the church's former pastor, Dr. Corwin H. Olds and church members and friends when relocation was made in 1956 from the historical old church on North Central Avenue to its new home on Campbell Avenue. The old church, dating back to 1891, served the community for 80 years as a place of worship and for 15 years as the Campbell City Hall.

Members of the Construction Committee include Robert Culp, chairman; Buz Jones, Dr. Weldon Parker, Jack Farnham, Verne La Mar, Stan Gadway, John Worden, Mrs. Henry Jensen, Mrs. Harry Gerin, Russell King, Myron Fairchild, and Werner Raab.

Community involvement has always been a policy of the Congregational Church of Campbell from the date of its founding on April 24, 1889 with the Rev. Dr. William Windsor, D.D., serving as its first pastor. The "Good Shepherd" stained glass window in the present sanctuary commemorates his ministry and life.

Currently the church reaches into local life by providing facilities for adult education programs, child center care, pre-school, AA meetings and various other community organizations.

A reception will be held in the new Fellowship Hall, following the ceremonies, with Mrs. H. E. Lillingston, president of the Women's Fellowship, in charge. The public is cordially invited to attend the services and the reception.

PHASE TWO — Additional classrooms are an important part of the recently completed additions to the Congregational Church of Campbell. Friends and members will acknowledge the additions in a Service of Celebration at the church at 1:30 on Sunday.

A LENGTHY BUILDING--- The Congregational Church of Campbell is dedicating two additions to their church on Sunday. Far right is the extended fellowship hall, which stretches across the Campbell Avenue frontage. In the rear, additional classrooms have been added to the church school.

STUDENTS MAKE MORE DECISIONS

by Randy Horner

Starting next year, Camden students will be given the opportunity of selecting the teachers for their classes except where there is only one teacher for a course.

"Our goal in this particular program is to bring about active involvement of the students in decision making experience," commented Miss Kathy Bull, Director of Education.

This program besides giving students the opportunity of selecting their teachers will also allow them to choose the period they wish for that class. The students will likewise have the responsibility of having to make a second or third selection if the teacher they decided on already has his or her quota of students.

Senior Counselor Curt Wilson feels that giving students the opportunity to make more decisions is the key to helping them accept the responsibility of living with their choice.

In August students will be sent a schedule showing when and what classes each teacher will instruct. All selections by students will be considered final.

The counselors have been in favor of this plan for a long time and are enthused that it will take effect next fall.

Camden is the pilot school for this particular assignment in this district and will be evaluated by the other schools. If the program succeeds, it will continue at Camden.

Student School Aid is the title of another program taking effect next fall at Camden. The project will involve students who want to work around the offices at school.

The areas open are office and lab assistants, A.V. crews and student tutors. Five units credit will be received for the whole year, but you must obtain permission from your teacher or person in charge of the activity to be able to serve the school in these functions.

"COLOUR MY WORLD"

The theme for the prom was "Colour My World," and the colors were silver and blue.

STUDENTS OBTAIN CHRISTMAS JOBS

by Debbie DeLash

Forty students from the Campbell Union High School District were involved in the Christmas Work Experience program, during the holiday season.

The program consists of students working in various retail stores in the area. These students obtained Christmas jobs through Work Experience and Retail Selling courses with the help of H.L. Billings, Scott Peterson, and George Fleming, District Work Experience Counselors.

Out of the forty students, eleven were from Camden. These students and the stores they worked in are as follows: John Bridgeman, Debbie DeLash, Liz Kern, Everett Merill, Gemco; Mary Candalaria, Christopher's Flowers; Rene Figuerado, and Carl Genovese, Newberry's.

Completing the list from Camden are Vicki Millard, Whitefront; Terry Smith, Payless; Deanna Snow, TG&Y, West Park Plaza; and Rick Wright, Roos Atkins, Almaden.

LEIGH CHECKMATED

by Chris Rodgers

Camden Chessmen won their sixth straight tournament as they "pawn"dered Leigh, 4-2-1. This is the second week Camden has been in first place all by itself. Jim Schovanec, John Stenzle, Peter Pyper, and Chris Rodgers were the four winners for Camden.

Rich Sarsfield lost his first match of the year. Larry Kondo lost also and Bill Slough battled to a king to king draw.

Top records this year included, Rich Sarsfield 6-1, Bill Slough 5-0-2, Chris Rodgers 5-1-1. If Camden beats Blackford the trophy goes to Camden until the end of next session.

BRAVES TRAMPLED, WARRIORS WHIPPED

by Alan Carmain

Camden's varsity wrestling team has started the season off by winning the first two league matches. The Blackford Braves were trampled in a 45-15 decision when they met the Camden Cougars on the losers home territory January 7.

The closer match was when the Cougars took on the Warriors last Tuesday at Westmont with a 36-24 decision. The Cougars won in 11 out of 13 weight divisions in the Varsity competition against the Warriors which led to the Cougar victory.

The J.V. wrestling team is 1-1 in league standings winning against Blackford and losing to Westmont.

REALLY, REALLY SAUSAGE --- Yep and from "scratch" too. Peter and Pete Carlino, of the Round House, were "outsiders" who showed elementary school students at Forest Hill School something they wouldn't ordinarily have an opportunity to see--how sausage is made! The demonstration was in conjunction with a new program at the school designed to give students the kind of experiences they might not ordinarily have.

LEARNING FROM EXPERTS --- Basketball players from Westmont High School were part of Forest Hill School's "enrichment" program last week. Here Ralph Murphy of Westmont shows a student how to hold a ball. The Westmont students spend an hour at the school working with the elementary boys.

STRUM, STRUM, STRUM--- Bill Schiede found an appreciative group of elementary school students who wanted to learn about the guitar, and who also could borrow brother's or a neighbor's or Dad's old guitar so they might spend some time learning about the strings in conjunction with Forest Hill School's "enrichment" program.

Medley of classes enrich Forest Hill students

Students at Forest Hill School, one of the largest elementary schools in Campbell Union School District, recently enjoyed a unique program designed to introduce them to sights, sounds and experiences which they would not normally have an opportunity to enjoy at school.

Called "enrichment", the program encompassed three different phases, the first involving course selection; the second, the actual experiences and the third, an evaluation.

The program, according to John Blackwell, district consultant, allowed the school population to "mix" by offering the students a choice of 35 to 50 different activities in which to participate.

The courses offered at Forest Hill included such titles as party treats, wire sculpture, toothpick art, neckties, macaroni cars, sponge art, magic, and macrame. Other titles were more familiar: stitchery, football, basketball, soccer, tumbling, watercolors, wrestling, guitar, paper airplanes, and paper-mache jewelry.

Much in demand were cooking classes -- basic cooking, foreign cooking, pixie pizza and Italian sausage making. The request for guitar classes necessitated a "split" and two separate classes were offered.

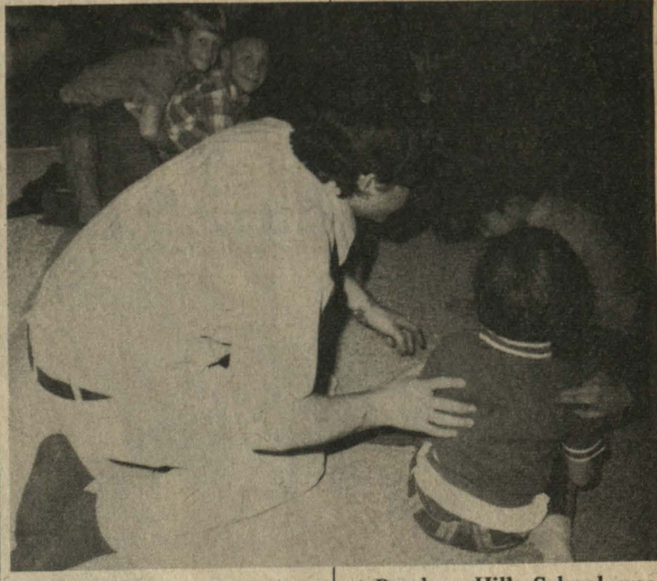
Each class was offered for a 45-minute period so that students could really work on first aid, checkers, actors' workshop, dough decorations, clay and collage during the period.

Who taught the classes? "Many members of our faculty who have interests in special areas and a number of outsiders joined our staff," said Steve Braley, vice-principal of Forest Hill.

"Outsiders" included Peter and Pete Carlino of the Round House Delicatessen, whose demonstration of sausage making attracted cafeteria and custodial staff, as well as Principal Louie Albanese.

High school students played a big part in the physical education classes and students from Westmont and Branham were on hand to give "clinic" in basketball and wrestling.

The third phase of the program is an evaluation by the student government who no doubt, will recommend "let's do it again."



YOUR TURN---Bruce Taylor, son of Mrs. Beth Taylor, a teacher at Forest Hill School, instructs a student in the art of wrestling. Bruce, a student at Branham Hills School, was one of several high schoolers who instructed students as part of an "enrichment" program conducted by the school.

OUT OF MACARONI?---Hard to believe that CARS could be made out of macaroni, but Mrs. Sue Ehrlich showed how it could be done as part of Forest Hill School's "enrichment" program.

MANY, MANY COOKS---The many cooks who stirred the pot in the foreign cookery class offered at Forest Hill School definitely did not "spoil the broth". In fact, the students were encouraged to get involved in the cooking which Mrs. Patty Brick directed as part of an "enrichment" program at the school.

"Ponies" sign on Saturday

Both newcomers and returnees for the Campbell-Moreland Pony League (ages 13-14) will sign up Saturday, January 22 at 10 a.m. at the Rosemary School, 401 West Hamilton.

A brief program will open the session, and all boys should be accompanied by at least one parent. Certification of birth date and a $15 registration fee are also required.

League officials remind those boys who played last season that they also must sign up. Scores of newcomers are also expected to attend.

Banquet features Giants' pitcher

Campbell Elementary Home and School Club, 295 Cherry Lane, will have its annual Father and Son Banquet on Tuesday, January 25 in the school cafetorium.

Tickets for the 6:30 dinner will be sold at the school on a first come, first serve basis.

Door prizes will be given away, but highlight of the evening will be guest speaker John Russell Gibson, pitcher for the San Francisco Giants Baseball team and a feature film of the San Francisco Giants.

Chairman of the annual event is Tom Thatcher, with Ron Clancey and Hank Mestice assisting in the preparations. Other guests will include Eddie Bressoud and Bob Burton.

Honorees will be school athletes.

TO BE HONORED---Campbell Elementary Students Kelly Kroening, Mike Linerud and Scott Pense watch John Monagle on the trampoline. The four are amongst the numerous athletes who'll be honored at Campbell's annual father and son banquet on Tuesday, January 25. Speaker at the banquet will be Gibby Gibson, pitcher for the San Francisco Giants. Tickets are available at the school.

College classes are still open

Openings remain in three West Valley College electronics courses, "The Laser", "Digital Computer Fundamentals" and "Integrated Microcircuit Fabrication."

The laser course begins Tuesday, January 25 from 7 to 10 p.m. while the computer course commences Wednesday, January 26 at the same hour. The microcircuit classes start Monday, February 7 at 7 p.m.

Registration and a small fee are required for all three courses.

Club advertises drug counseling

The San Jose Advertising Club is initiating a new public service whereby club members produce advertising for projects that are non-commercial, non-partisan, and not designed to influence legislation, was announced today by Bob Lemmerman of 4725 Del Loma Court, president of the professional group.

First program, featuring newspaper advertising, billboards, radio and television spots, is on the Santa Clara County Sheriff's Department "Analysis Anonymous." Space and time are furnished by the media as part of their public service programs.

"Analysis Anonymous" is a program whereby an individual may call 299-3521 to locate a drug counseling service or to find out if a questionable substance is a drug.

The latter service is handled by telling the caller the location of a "drop off" point nearby, and then, when the substance is dropped off, giving him a number by which he identifies himself when calling back in. All callers may remain anonymous.

Curtis Wright of Rock, Bergthold and Wright is chairman of the Civic Affairs Committee of the San Jose Advertising Club, with Clyde Lawrence, San Jose State College associate professor, as co-chairman.

Other members include David S. Bannister of Patrick Andrews Advertising; Darrel Monda of Ryan Robert Darwin Inc., in Campbell; John Benjamin of Foster and Kleiser, and Shirlie Montgomery, photographer.
